2017 JUSP Community Survey open until 22nd December

The annual JUSP community survey is now open. The JUSP team are always very keen to understand how you're using JUSP in your work and your views are very important in helping us to make improvements to the service and to indicate priority areas for future development. The survey has been distributed directly to main contacts and through the mailing list but is open to anyone who uses JUSP. As an added incentive to complete the survey we're offering entry into a prize draw to win a £50 Amazon voucher. We will be sharing a report summarising the results early next year.   You can view the reports from previous community surveys via our news page http://jusp.jisc.ac.uk/news/.   If you do not have a link to the survey and would like to take part, please contact the helpdesk help@jisc.ac.uk.

Community Advisory Group meeting

Development of JUSP is informed through various routes including our Community Advisory Group (CAG) with members from ten JUSP participating institutions. During our latest meeting in November we discussed activities of the CAG members in relation to usage statistics, the development of book reports, database reports and visualisations, progress with publishers and the value and impact of JUSP. Neil Grindley also joined us to discuss the national bibliographic knowledgebase (NBK) project.

Institutions joining JUSP

This month we welcome three more institutions to JUSP:

- Varndean College

- North Lindsey College

- Havering College of Further & Higher Education

KB+ new user interface is now available

KB+ has released a new interface which offers a more intuitive, simplified and efficient experience. Along with the interface, they have also introduced a finance module. The new module allows institutions to record financial information, and with the data taken from JUSP, enables cost per use calculations to be made. If you are interested in learning about the new interface the team are running a "New interface walkthrough" webinar on Wednesday 6th December at 14.00 and you can sign up at https://jisc.onlinesurveys.ac.uk/kb-new-interface-walk-through.

Data visualisations webinar recordings

In early November the JUSP data visualisations were made available as a beta release and we ran a webinar to introduce them a few weeks later. For those that missed it, the slides and a recording are now available on our events and training page http://jusp.jisc.ac.uk/events-training/.
